GENERAL WARRANTIES OF THE NORTHERN NEVADA INTERGROUP ASSOCIATION OF ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS

In all its proceedings, the Intergroup Association observes the spirit of AA Traditions, taking great care that the Intergroup Association never becomes the seat of perilous wealth or power; that sufficient operating funds, plus a reserve be its prudent financial principal; that none of the Intergroup Association members shall ever be placed in a position of unqualified authority over any of the others; that all important decision be reached by discussion, vote and whenever possible, substantial unanimity; that no Intergroup Association action ever be personally punitive or an incitement to public controversy; that though the Intergroup Association may act for the service of AA Groups in the Northern Nevada area and parts of Northern California, it shall never perform any acts of government; and that, like the Society of Alcoholics Anonymous, the Intergroup Association itself will always remain democratic in thought and action.

(The above is adapted and modified from "The AA Service Manual", and AA Co-Founder Bill W's. Twelve Concepts for World Service; Concept XII, as adopted by the General Service Conference on April 26, 1962. This adaptation of copyrighted AA material has been approved by the General Service Board)

NORTHERN NEVADA INTERGROUP

Tradition Four

By Bill W.: Each group should be autonomous except in matters affecting other groups or AA as a whole.

Tradition Four is a specific application of general principles already outlined in Traditions One and Two. Tradition One states: "Each member of Alcoholics Anonymous is but a small part of a great whole. AA must continue to live or most of us will surely die. Hence our common welfare comes first. But individual welfare follows close afterward." Tradition Two states: "For our group purpose there is but one ultimate authority--a loving God as he may express himself in our group conscience."

With these concepts in mind, let us look more closely at Tradition Four. The first sentence guarantees each AA group local autonomy. With respect to its own affairs, the group may make any decisions, adopt any attitudes that it likes. No overall or intergroup authority should challenge this primary privilege. We feel this ought to be so, even though the group might sometimes act with complete indifference to our Tradition. For example, an AA group could, if it wished, hire a paid preacher and support him out of the proceeds of a group nightclub. Though such an absurd procedure would be miles outside our Tradition, the group's "right to be wrong" would be held inviolate. We are sure that each group can be granted, and safely granted, these most extreme privileges. We know that our familiar process of trial and error would summarily eliminate both the preacher and the nightclub. Those severe growing pains which invariably follow any radical departure from AA Tradition can be absolutely relied upon to bring an erring group back into line. An AA group need not be coerced by any human government over and above its own members. Their own experience, plus AA opinion in surrounding groups, plus God's prompting in their group conscience would be sufficient. Much travail has already taught us this. Hence we may confidently say to each group, "You should be responsible to no other authority than your own conscience."

Yet please note one important qualification. It will be seen that such extreme liberty of thought and action applies only to the group's own affairs. Rightly enough, [the long form of] this Tradition goes on to say, "But when its plans concern the welfare of neighboring groups also, these groups ought to be consulted." Obviously, if any individual, group, or regional committee could take an action that might seriously affect the welfare of Alcoholics Anonymous as a whole or seriously disturb surrounding groups, that would not be liberty at all. It would be sheer license; it would be anarchy, not democracy.

Therefore, we AAs have universally adopted the principle of consultation. This means that if a single AA group wishes to take any action that might affect surrounding groups, it consults them. Or, it confers with the intergroup committee for the area, if there be one. Likewise, if a group or regional committee wishes to take any action that might affect AA as a whole, it consults the trustees of the Alcoholic Foundation, who are, in effect, our overall general service committee. For instance, no group or intergroup could feel free to initiate, without consultation, any publicity that might affect AA as a whole. Nor could it assume to represent the whole of Alcoholics Anonymous by printing and distributing anything purporting to be standard AA literature. The same principle would naturally apply to all similar situations. Though there is no formal compulsion to do so, all undertakings of this general character are customarily checked with our AA general headquarters.

The idea is clearly summarized in the last sentence of Tradition Four, which observes, "On such issues our common welfare is paramount."

Recovery Step Four:

"Made a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves."

Three

Unity Tradition Four:

"Each group should be autonomous except in matters affecting other groups or A.A. as a whole."

Legacies

Service Concept Four:

"Throughout our Conference structure, we ought to maintain at all responsible levels, a traditional "Right of Participation," taking care that each classification or group of our world servants shall be allowed a voting representation in reasonable proportion to the responsibility that each must dis-charge" To better understand of this Concept, please read the full Concept IV in the A.A. Service Manual, page 17, and/or in AA Pamphlet P-8, "The Twelve Concepts for World Service illustrated." P-8, "The Twelve Concepts for World Service illustrated."

Concept IV – Right of Participation Assures a Voting Representation throughout All of the A.A. Service Structure

Have you ever felt that your ideas of how to go about doing your job as an employee or as a volunteer were not appreciated; or, that other ideas you had about your work situation were ignored? These are exact opposites of the meaning of "right of participation." Concept IV tells us that throughout our A.A. service structure we ought to maintain at all responsible levels a traditional "right of participation," taking care that each classification or group of our trusted servants be allowed a voting representation in reasonable proportion to the responsibility that each must carry out.

Bill W. says the lessons learned about this right of participation, as in most A.A. lessons, came the hard way. In the early days A.A. headquarters was run on authoritarian and institutional lines. At that time, the A.A. Trustees saw no reason to delegate their managerial powers or to work with voting participation with anyone outside their own body. The result was often grievous trouble and misunderstanding. It was years before we saw that we could never put all authority in one group and virtually all responsibility in another and then expect efficiency of operation, let alone real harmony. Participation can usually stop this sort of demoralizing nonsense before it starts. We are not order-takers nor rubber-stamps. We are participants and trusted servants.

Paraphrasing Bill further, he says that we are not against the idea of an ultimate authority. We are only against its misapplication and misuse. The "right of participation" is correction of a misuse or harshness in the application of authority.

Bill also discusses how the right of participation is important spiritually to us individually and to A.A. as a whole. This applies to our relationships with each other throughout our fellowship. All of us have a deep desire to belong and to be included. Because of this we prefer an A.A. relationship of "brotherly partnership." Among A.A. members, in our groups, and among our local and world service workers there should never be any who are considered "second class". "Right of participation" includes the attitude that all participants in A.A. make valid and important contributions to our work together.

By implication, this relationship of "brotherly partnership" would extend to how we treat each other as persons and how we respect and honor the job each person is doing. A past A.A. Trustee expands on this idea when she says that as we work together in A.A., it is not so much what we do or accomplish, but how well we treat each other while we do it that really matters.

"Right of participation" includes having all our ideas both heard and respected.

This is a 12 part series written by members of the 12 Concepts Study Group in Reno, Nevada. Efforts were made to use simple, everyday language. Each concept is written by an individual member of the group and is not necessarily the opinion of AA as a whole or NNIG. We hope this series will help our community to understand the Concepts and bring interest to those wanting to know more about them. Revised May, 2017.

The Bracer is a monthly publication intended for members of Alcoholics Anonymous and their families only. It is about, by and for members of the fellowship. Opinions expressed herein are not necessarily those of A.A. as a whole or NNIG. For article submissions or comments,

Dear Higher Power, so far today I've done all right. I haven't gossiped, lost my temper, been greedy, grumpy, nasty, selfish or overindulgent. I'm very thankful for the kind of day you have given me. But in a few minutes, Higher Power, I'm going to get out of bed, and from then on I'm going to need a lot more help! Amen.

Coming to terms with a bad situation

Eight years ago I became paralyzed from a medical debacle. I had been complaining about pain between my shoulder blades but the doctor I saw didn't listen and sent me home with a muscle relaxer. As a result, I lost the use of my legs and was confined to a wheelchair. I had to say goodbye to my athletic lifestyle where my higher power was the Great Out Doors. Even with 23 years of sobriety at the time of the paralysis, I knew I had to come to a place of acceptance or I would be a horrible woman who sits in her wheelchair giving the finger to the world. I resented everyone who could walk. I knew I couldn't live like that.

For the first three years of my paralysis, I negotiated with my HP to be able to walk again. I wrote and shared and wrote and screamed about the huge resentment I had with the doctor. Still miserable, I realized I had to COME TO A DECISION which enabled me to move forward and to navigate through the steps AGAIN.

Next was to come to a place of acceptance. I knew I needed a person in the program to walk me through the steps. One gift of the program has been the women presented to me. I literally bumped into them. The "Sunshine Committee," the A.A. meeting that visits members who can't attend a meeting, came into my life during one of my hospital stays while I was in Reno. Some of those women are still in my life.

A.A. taught me to look for the people who had what I wanted. I wanted serenity-and I asked a woman to go through the steps with me. We began this journey reading the 12&12 starting with my powerlessness over paralysis and how unmanageable my life was with resentment. After several months, I rekindled my spiritual path towards acceptance. It must have worked. People started to approach me and I wasn't so prickly as before. I couldn't figure this out-but something about me was different.

When I returned to my home in Maine, my friends noticed a change in me. WOW!! I think that is humility. I don't know. All I know is one day at a time, I am grateful to be alive and continue to look for the good in people, places, and things.

I have experienced, PROGRESS, NOT PERFECTION. At times, I feel a deep sadness for losses in my life. Such as not being able to ski with my grandchildren or not hiking Mt Rose with program friends. The difference is I don't stay in that sadness too long. I work with HP to focus on all my many, many gifts in my life which continues to be PRESENTS.

Life on life's terms is very, very difficult; however, the 12 steps offered me a road map to navigate my new life.
